

SAN ANTONIO FINANCES IN DECENT SHAPE

January 2018 truthinaccounting.org

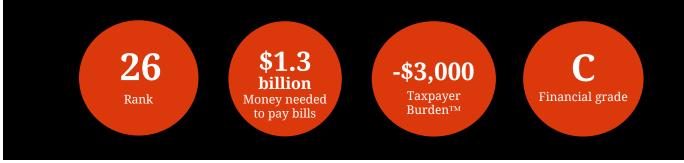

THE FINANCIAL STATE OF SAN ANTONIO

Truth in Accounting's (TIA) new city report ranks and grades the 75 most populous cities in the United States by their financial health. San Antonio ranks No. 26, earning it a "C" on TIA's grading scale.

Repeated decisions by city officials have left the city with a debt burden of $1.3 billion, according to TIA's analysis of its 2016 financial filings. That burden equates to $3,000 for every San Antonio taxpayer.

San Antonio's overall debt largely consists of bonds payable and entitlement obligations in two categories: pensions and retiree healthcare benefits. The city has $1.5 billion in unfunded pension promises and $888.6 million in unfunded retiree healthcare benefits. While San Antonio has promised these benefits, little money has been set aside to fund them.

These statistics are jarring, but what's also alarming is that city government officials continue to hide significant amounts of retirement debt from their balance sheets, despite new rules to increase financial transparency. This skewed financial data gives residents a false impression of their city's overall financial health.

Data included in this report is derived from the city of San Antonio's 2016 audited Comprehensive Annual Financial Report and retirement plans' actuarial reports. Visit statedatalab.org for more information.
