RHODE ISLAND FINANCES SLIGHTLY IMPROVED

THE FINANCIAL STATE OF RHODE ISLAND

Repeated decisions by state officials have left the state with a staggering debt burden of $5.1 billion, according to Truth in Accounting's (TIA) analysis of the most recent financial filings. That burden equates to $13,600 for every Rhode Island taxpayer.

These statistics are troubling, but what's more troubling is that state government officials continue to obscure large amounts of retirement debt on their balance sheets, despite new rules to increase financial transparency. This skewed financial data gives state residents a false impression of their state's overall financial health.

Data included in this report is derived from the state of Rhode Island's 2016 audited Comprehensive Annual Financial Report and retirement plans' actuarial reports.

GRADE: D

Bottom line: Rhode Island does not have enough money to pay its bills, so it has received a "D" for its finances from Truth in Accounting. A "D" grade is given to states with a taxpayer burden™ between $5,000 & $20,000. Because of Rhode Island's balanced budget requirement, their taxpayer burden should be $0.
